Bear with us

There is a growing number of bear incidents or sighting occurring in the villages of Minden and Haliburton.

During the past few weeks in Minden a sow and two cubs have been sighted near homes bordering on the wetlands south of the community arena. On a number of occasions, garbage containers have been over-turned or destroyed by bears attracted to the location by the odour. A number of residents along North Water Street have seen or heard bears near their homes. In one case the bear entered a garage in search of food.

Early Saturday morning, a bear tipped over the garbage enclosure next to Gina's Shear Talent, spilling its contents across the parking lot. A garbage can next to The Times office was also overturned.

Residents of the McKayville subdivision report that hungry bears left a trail of over-turned composters throughout the neighbourhood.

Bears have also been seen at various locations in Haliburton village, Cobocok, Carnarvon and Gooderham among other communities.

MNR spokesman Stan Flemming said a poor natural food crop such as acorns and beech nuts is forcing the bears to search for other sources of food. He suggested the best way to ensure a bear does not visit your property is to clear away all garbage, remove fallen apples and keep pet food inside. He noted that most of the bears in Algonquin Park have retired to dens for

Ernice Warder: Highlander of the Year

Long-time resident and community volunteer Ernice Warder has been named the 1995 Highlander of the Year.

The award was presented Wednesday evening at the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce annual meeting held at Red Umbrella Inn.

Chamber of Commerce president Connie Sims introduced the recipient to the Chamber members. She noted that among the seven nominations received by the board, one stood out among all the rest as deserving of the recognition.

The Highlander of the Year award is presented annually by the Chamber to an outstanding citizen who has made a meaningful contribution to life in the community.

Sims noted that Mrs. Warder had been an active member of the community and continues to make a valuable contribution to life in the Highlands. She then listed some of the many organizations with which she has been involved. Among those are:

- volunteer for the Haliburton County Association for Community Living.

- a member of the board of directors of the Haliburton County Information Service.

- a volunteer with the Haliburton Highlands Literacy Society.

- past chairperson of the Parklane Apartments Residents Association (a seniors' apartment complex in Haliburton)

- a volunteer with the local chapter of the Heart and Stroke Foundation. Her work has included being a part of the annual canvass for funds and organizer of the annual swim for heart fund raising effort.

- recording secretary for District 18, Victoria/Haliburton, Superannuated Teachers of Ontario.

- membership convener for the Haliburton Chapter of the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario.

- member of the Dymco bus committee and participant in the county-wide transportation task force.

- organizer of bus transportation for seniors and the disabled for

No word on emergency department's hours

by Andrew Milne

With just over a week left before the end of the month, Minden is still waiting for word on what will happen to its hospital in November.

The finance committee of St. Joseph's of Peterborough, Minden hospital's parent hospital, was to recommend October 19 what hours, if any, the emergency ward of the Minden facility would remain open from November to the end of the fiscal year in March of 1996. The committee has now met, but as of press time (October 22) their recommendation has not been made public.

The Ministry of Health (MOH) has to approve the recommendation before action can be taken, and is now expected to make the decision early this week.

The staff, confirms Ontario Nursing Association (ONA) representative Jeannette Gibbons, are anxiously awaiting word.

Said Gibbons October 20, "I've been sitting around all day, waiting to hear... We understood that the deadline was supposed to be the nineteenth or twentieth. It just creates a little more apprehension and tension."

All nursing staff in the facility have received layoff notices, but the hospital has stated that some of these will be rescinded, once the decision on the operating hours has been made and the staffing needs become more clear.

Executive director of St. Joseph's, Frank Lussing, was in Haliburton October 20, after the finance committee meeting, to meet with the local Acting Health Services Board (AHSB), but did not comment to the board on the finance committee's decision.

The Minden Hospital is currently in the throes of a major funding and staffing crisis, due to an acute shortage of doctors available to staff the wards. The in-patient ward has been closed since mid-April, and St. Joseph's has been paying to bring in doctors from outside the community to staff the emergency ward, but the cost of doing this has quite seriously eaten into the hospital's operating funds.

St. Joseph's finance committee had earlier recommended that the Minden hospital emergency ward be closed, leaving only an office hours clinic in the building, effective the end of September, but the MOH instructed St. Joseph's that before doing so, they would have to submit a revised operating plan to the ministry, and the ministry would have to approve it. In the interim, St. Joseph's reduced the operating hours of the emergency ward for the month of October to 16 hours per day rather than 24. The hospital currently closes between midnight and 8 am.

St. Joseph's was also instructed by the MOH to seek the opinions of a number of local groups involved in health care in Haliburton County, on what hours, from their point of view, the facility should remain open. Both St. Joseph's local Community Advisory Committee (CAC) and the AHSB have responded that 24 hour service should be maintained, as has the county of Victoria.

Lussing, however, had previously stated that the cost of running the ward for 24 hours a day — creating a deficit for the year of around $350,000 on a budget of $1.3 million — ruled it out as an option, unless the MOH could come up with the money.

The AHSB is expected to take over ownership of both the Minden and Haliburton hospitals in late 1996 or early 1997, and will in all likelihood abandon the aging Minden facility in favour of running its emergency services elsewhere — likely at the Hyland Crest long term care facility. The AHSB is however in no position to put such services in place now, meaning a closure or hours reduction will leave some residents of the Minden region and northern Victoria County considerably farther from an open emergency ward.

Victoria County backs Minden Hospital

The County of Victoria passed a resolution October 18 recommending the only acceptable hours of operation for Minden hospital are 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

The resolution notes that the citizens of the northern portion of the county rely on the emergency services in the Minden Hospital, and that Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay is already badly overcrowded.

"The reduction of hours to eight per day," the resolution reads, "would create a life threatening situation."

The facility's parent hospital, St. Joseph's of Peterborough, is considering reducing the hours of operation of the Minden emergency ward or closing it altogether in favour of an office hours walk-in clinic. The action is being considered in response to an acute doctor shortage in Minden.

There are principally three municipalities in Victoria whose populations use the Minden hospital — Bexley, Somerville, and Laxton-Digby-Longford.

A similar resolution proposed by the administrative committee of Peterborough County council did not pass. One municipality in Peterborough — Galway-Cavendish — has a population which uses Minden in emergencies.

Said Galway-Cavendish deputy reeve Peter Franzen, "We're very happy that Victoria County made that resolution... In Victoria county there are quite a few municipalities represented, but in Peterborough, we're the only municipality that would be within 50 miles of Minden, so it was a tough sell."

Franzen said he believes that the Peterborough committee turned down the resolution because they felt it might take away from the operations of St. Joseph's in Peterborough. Peterborough County council did however pass a resolution stating that it is not the mandate of the provincial government to reduce health care costs.

Franzen also expressed the concern that areas outside Haliburton county which are reliant on the service in Minden — like his township and those in northern Victoria county — tend to be ignored in decision making.

Said Franzen, "It's looked at as a Haliburton County problem. There hasn't been too much concern for the municipalities to the south."

the winter and he expects the same to happen here soon as well.

Flemming noted the bears are eager to avoid human contact and are not considered an aggressive problem. However, extra patrols will be instituted this week.

The downside of this situation is that many of the cubs are under-sized because of the lack of food and it is unlikely they will all survive the winter without the nutrition they would normally be storing up at this time of the year.

Bear sightings should diminish within a couple of weeks as the weather cools and the animals enter their dens for the winter hibernation.

In the meantime, Flemming's advice for anyone encountering bears is to leave them alone and give them lots of space.

The Bagg family honoured

Eagle Lake Food Town named Business of the Year

A business in the hamlet of Eagle Lake and the family which built it have been awarded the Business of the Year designation by the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

The Eagle Lake Food Town, owned and operated by Allan and Ellenor Bagg and their children was given the honour at the annual meeting of the Chamber held Wednesday at Red Umbrella Inn.

The honour was created a number of years ago to recognize business members who have made a meaningful and lasting contribution to the community they serve and to the Highlands in total.

Chamber director Larry Tuppling introduced Allan Bagg, and told the gathering that the Baggs are 27 year residents of Eagle Lake and during that time they have built up their business from a small general store to a thriving grocery outlet. In the process, the Baggs have shared their enthusiasm with their community. Among the achievements enumerated during the presentation were:

- a member of the Rotary Club of Haliburton with a perfect attendance record. He also served the club as president and serves on the club's board of directors as secretary. He has always been an organizer of the club's annual Summer Carnival Parade.

- a member of the Haliburton Highlands Museum Board.

- past member of the Board of Directors of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce.

- a member of the Haliburton Messiah Choir.

- a member of the Masonic Lodge.

- Ellenor and Allan served as Worthy Matron and Patron of the Order of the Eastern Star as it marked its fiftieth anniversary this year.

- member of the Eagle Lake Rhubarb Committee.

- life member of the Ontario Model T Club.

- member of the Haliburton Chapter of the Historical Automobile Society of Canada.

- active member of the Eagle Lake Community Church where he served as elder and trustee.

Commenting following the presentation, Allan Bagg said he was surprised and pleased to receive the award. "I am a firm believer in the Haliburton Highlands," he commented. "Our business has grown with the county and we hope it will continue to grow in the future."

Allan was taken by surprise by the presentation. "I was told we were going out for a 'going away dinner' for my granddaughter who is leaving Sunday for England. And then all these business people started to arrive. It was a total surprise."

He told the audience that his family had always enjoyed travelling, but they always looked forward to coming home. His voice cracking with emotion, he told the Chamber members, "Haliburton will always be home to me."

weekly shopping, medical appointments, church services and recreational activities.

- is involved in the organization of activities for the Senior Games.

- as well as organizing activities for residents of the Parklane Apartment complex including dinners, guest speakers, exercise and social activities.

Mrs. Warder is well known throughout the county. She was a teacher for 25 years before retiring in 1984. Through her many years of teaching she has earned the respect and admiration of thousands of students and fellow teachers.

As noted by Gord Monk, one of many who supported her nomination, "Over the years of teaching, Mrs. Warder helped many students with learning disabilities and has continued to show an interest in their progress after they joined the work force....she is tireless in her efforts to help the residents of Parklane Apartmentsand is a model of what every good neighbour should be. No request to her for assistance goes unanswered."

Mrs. Warder was genuinely surprised when her name was announced at the meeting. "I didn't know anything about this. The Gostocks (Joyce and Al) invited me out for the evening and indicated it could have something to do with our involvement in the Heart and Stroke Foundation and their recent award. I should have known something was up when my daughter Jean phoned earlier in the week and suggested I get my hair done and wear my new dress for the evening."

Mrs. Warder said her volunteer activity is just returning to the community what it has given her over the years. "I enjoy being with people." She recalls the support and comfort she received when her husband died and she was left with three children, living in Lochlin. "People have been good to me over the years. It is the least I can do in return."

"There is no finer place to live than the Haliburton Highlands," she told the audience at the end of the presentation Wednesday night.

Kinmount Celebration Garden planted last week The words will bloom next spring

At least two communities in this area have been awarded Dutch Tulip Celebration Gardens, following a contest published earlier this year in Canadian Living magazine. Essays submitted by Boni Featherstone, a teacher at Ridgewood Public School in Coboconk and Kinmount resident Madeline Pearson were selected as the winners and resulted in the communities being provided with 400 tulip bulbs.

The contest was held in conjunction with the 50th anniversary of the end of the Second World War and the gift of tulips from the Dutch Royal Family to Canadians for the hospitality this country showed them during the war.

Last week we featured photographs of the planting ceremony at the Ridgewood School. This week we are featuring the Kinmount planting and are reprinting the two essays which were responsible for the community prizes.

by Boni Featherstone

Three years ago, four small country schools in Victoria County, amalgamated to form a brand new school in Coboconk called Ridgewood. The school is located on the top of a high hill overlooking the village. The caretakers, students and staff take great pride in keeping it beautiful.

The school was landscaped at the front entrance, but the school yard, which is huge and grassy has no trees. This year we undertook a project we call the "Naturalization of Ridgewood." The object of our project is to plant trees in the school yard under which the students can read, gossip and study and to create an outdoor classroom environment in one area where everyone can enjoy the ever-changing delights of nature.

Our students have already planted 200 trees, "rescued" some trees that were scheduled to be bulldozed by workers who were building a highway by our school, and wild flowers have been allowed to grow where once the lawn was mowed.

Every year, on November 11, our students write poems and essays about "Remembrance. Wouldn't a Dutch Tulip Celebration Garden, blooming every spring in our outdoor classroom, be a beautiful way to remember?"

by Madeline Pearson

Kinmount is a little village settled originally by families who came to work in the water-powered sawmill built on the shores of the Burnt River. Merchants and hotel keepers opened businesses, a railroad was built and the town thrived. But disaster struck three times - a flood and two devastating fires. The railroad was abandoned, the mill, the bank, the medical centre and the school closed. Kinmount was dying.

A group of foresighted citizens formed a committee and formulated an ambitious plan to bring new life to their community. They would attract tourists by restoring the mill to working order, renovating the train station and creating a park with a walking trail, beach, picnic area and canoe launch. With great optimism they documented their plans, solicited donations of materials and volunteer labour and held money raising projects. Then they applied to the government for the money needed to make a beginning and received a grant of $40,000.

Work is progressing well, and sufficient space has been reserved should we win a Dutch garden. It is not far from the Cenotaph commemorating the young men of the community who died to preserve peace and freedom in both Canada and Netherlands.

A Family Tradition in Funeral Service

Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home has a long history of serving area families. John Welch established the original facility in Minden in 1874 as a blacksmith and cabinet-making shop. Over the years the business evolved to making caskets and providing funeral services.

The original facility has seen many changes to keep up with the growing needs of the families we serve. With the most recent changes in the spring of 1995, our current funeral home is now approximately 6500 square feet and offers three visitation rooms, a clergy room/lending library, a chapel, casket selection room, a kitchen, lounge, office and living quarters. With these renovations we are able to accommodate up to four individual funeral visitations, service clubs, fraternal associations, and luncheon/receptions.

The funeral home was purchased from the Welch family in 1975 by Gordon and Donna Monk. For the past 20 years we have been dedicated to providing quality funeral service to the families in this community.

That dedication is further reflected by our involvement in local groups. Gordon is a member of the Shriners, Kinsmen, K 40, Lions Foundation, and B.I.A. He has served as past Treasurer of the Ontario Funeral Service Association and on the Board of Directors for the Chamber of Commerce. Donna is involved with Haliburton Highlands Literacy and church and community choirs.

We are active in local support groups, seminars on grief recovery, and a reforestation program. We also frequently address public gatherings on death and dying and the dynamics of grieving.

The funeral home truly is a family business. Gordon and Donna's son, Cameron, joined the staff in 1984. In 1986, we purchased an existing funeral home in Bobcaygeon. In the summer of 1995 a chapel was added to seat approximately 130-140 people. This also enables us to have two services at once.

Cameron currently serves as managing Director of the Bobcaygeon location. His wife Liz and Donna Monk act as Bereavement Coordinators for our New Beginnings support group. This group is available to anyone who has suffered a personal loss. Cameron and Liz recently had an addition to their family with the birth of their son Gordon.

Gordon A. Monk Funeral Home continued its family tradition when daughter Kirsten Monk joined the staff in 1986. Kirsten is active in many organizations including the Ontario Funeral Service Association and is the second woman in the history of OFSA to serve as President. She currently acts as Co-Managing Director of the Minden location. She is also a member of C.H.A.C.E. (child care options working group) and the Minden Cemetery Board.

Kirsten's husband Barry Cray joined the firm in 1990 and became fully licensed in 1993. He is involved with Rotary, Haliburton County Association for Community Living, and Haliburton County Hospice. Barry and Kirsten are the proud parents of their son Alex.

As our family celebrates our 20th year in business, we would like to take this opportunity to reaffirm our pledge to providing caring and compassionate service to Haliburton County and the surrounding communities.

We invite you to share in this celebration at an Open House to be held Sunday, November 5th at 3:00 p.m.

Ecologist speaks on water quality

Maybe the lakes are improving — and maybe they aren't. In either case, says ecologist Orie Loucks, conservation efforts will have to be continued.

by Andrew Milne

Data provided by a government ministry may not be reliable in terms of assessing water quality changes over time, says an ecologist.

Orie Loucks, a renowned US-based ecologist with roots in this area and a cottage on Canning Lake, spoke on water quality at a seminar organized by the Canning Lake Property Owners Association in Lochlin October 14.

Loucks had been comparing reported phosphorus levels in Canning Lake over the years from 1971 to present. Phosphorus is a natural element present in normal aquatic systems, but a number of anthropomorphic activities can boost its levels artificially in lake water and sediments — a process known as phosphorus loading. Faulty septic systems, sewage treatment plants, and even the use of phosphorus fertilizers on property adjacent to the lake system, can do this.

The boosted levels can result in a number of ecological effects — the most notorious of which are the algae blooms seen in some particularly heavily loaded lakes. In an algae bloom, algae — microscopic plants which thrive under conditions of high phosphorus — increase dramatically in population, turning the waters of lakes and rivers a deep green. Following this, the algae die, settle into lower lake waters, and rot, consuming oxygen and putting pressure on species like trout in the deeper waters, which are dependent on the oxygen levels.

Loucks had observed that the phosphorus levels in Canning, as in many lakes in the area, had been increasing steadily through the 1980s, but seemed to decrease again in the early 1990s, suggesting perhaps conservation measures taken by landowners on the lake chain were having some effect.

Loucks was, however, shortly thereafter told that the Ministry of the Environment and Energy (MOEE) had changed the reporting methods around this time — from a method that estimates phosphorus levels from chlorophyll levels in the water, to a more direct test, in which total weight per volume of phosphorus in the water (organic and inorganic) are reported.

The change occurred at the same time as the apparent 'turnaround' in the phosphorus levels, which may mean it's only due to the difference in which the levels are being estimated.

A more crude test of water quality — the secchi disk, which estimates turbidity (or 'murkiness' of the water), does not show the turnaround at the time, but rather a levelling off in the decline of water quality.

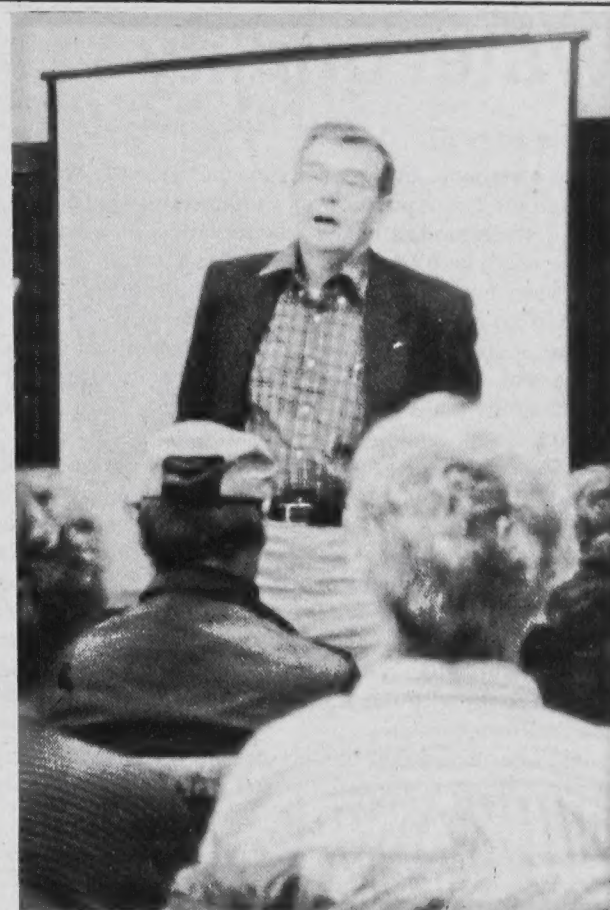

Loucks emphasizes that it is extremely important that the lake associations lobby the government to get the chlorophyll A levels for the entire period of 1971 to present, so better comparisons can be made. Though a more indirect test than the newer phosphorus test, the chlorophyll levels have the advantage that they are quite simple, quite inexpensive, and have probably been done consistently for this reason throughout the monitoring period.

"There's really no reason," said Loucks, "that they couldn't just give us three columns of data — secchi disks, the chlorophyll tests, and, for the time they've been done, the direct phosphorus test. That would really tell us something."

Eurasian water milfoil

Loucks also spoke to the problem of the invading weed Eurasian Water Milfoil [or Pale Water Milfoil — Myriophyllum spicatum var. exalbescentis], an aquatic plant which has been increasingly clogging navigation channels in Canning Lake and adjacent water routes.

Myriophyllum, says Loucks, seems to be a problem primarily in areas in which the sediments in the lake bottom have been enriched in phosphorus from phosphorus loading over the years — they don't do so well in areas where phosphorus is closer to normal levels. So part of the solution, he says, is to continue current conservation efforts aimed at keeping phosphorus out of the lakes — use of low phosphate detergents and soaps, careful maintenance of septic systems, upgrading of the sewage treatment plant in Haliburton village (Canning is downstream).

Another, more direct approach he also recommends, is to lower the water levels temporarily, with the dams, and to go into the lake in work gangs, and pick the weeds out. Audience members however protested quite vociferously to Loucks and a representative of the Ministry of Natural Resources (MNR) who was present that the MNR will not let them pick the weeds. Loucks suggested that the MNR be lobbied on the issue. The MNR rep — Steve Wilkins, present to explain the MNR's new private land stewardship program to the audience — said that if it were a regional issue, the problem of permits to pick the weeds would be something the new program should be able to address.

Loucks also stated that in Wisconsin, where he does much of his research now, the weed was even more abundant than it is in Canning back in the seventies, but late in the decade it quite unexpectedly seemed to experience a setback, due possibly to an epidemic working through the dense population. Emphasizing that concern is still warranted, and that conservation measures are still needed, he told the audience that there is, nonetheless, some hope that the same will happen here.

Said Loucks, "In the long run, water milfoil is not a permanent invader. It's relatively long term, but it's not permanent. There's lots we can do as a community in this chain of lakes to mediate the problem or moderate the situation."

Loucks also said that a theory that the die-back was due to the milfoil using up the excess phosphorus really isn't that solid. Said Loucks, "It doesn't really use up the phosphorus in the sediment. It pumps the phosphorus out of the sediment and leaks it into the water, so that for many lakes that have a lot of water weeds, they wind up with that much more phosphorus in the water column, which has been taken from the sediment. But it goes back in, with the algae — the dead algae, and the dead milfoil."

He later noted that this effect also increases the risk of algae blooms while the plants are present in abundance.

Improved Sewage Treatment

Bill Davis, deputy-reeve of the Municipality of Dysart, was also present, to talk about Dysart's new sewage treatment plant. Loucks and members of the Canning and other lake associations were instrumental in lobbying the municipality to improve phosphorus emission standards at their facility, and Davis said he felt no bitterness over that.

Said Davis, "You people got involved, and made us put in proper equipment, to address the concerns down the whole chain of lakes. Instead of being here to vent vengeance, I'm here to thank you very much for causing us to do so, because we now have a plant that is state of the art."

ONTARIO
OF THE YEAR
AWARDS

A joint community project of:

CITIZENS of HALIBURTON COUNTY

DO YOU KNOW THAT:

- A PROPOSAL HAS BEEN MADE TO AMALGAMATE THE HALIBURTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION WITH THE VICTORIA, PETERBOROUGH AND NORTHUMBERLAND - CLARINGTON BOARDS.
This new Board would stretch from Lake Ontario to Dorset and would be larger than P.E.I. !
- THE PROPOSED AMALGAMATION WILL INCREASE PROPERTY TAXES IN HALIBURTON COUNTY BY A MINIMUM OF 25%.
There is no evidence to indicate any real cost savings.
- IT IS POSSIBLE THAT HALIBURTON COUNTY WOULD NOT EVEN HAVE ONE REPRESENTATIVE ON THE NEW 9 TRUSTEE BOARD.
What effect will this have on the responsiveness of the new Board to local needs and concerns?
- THE RECENT ROYAL COMMISSION ON LEARNING FOUND NO EVIDENCE THAT AMALGAMATION WOULD LEAD TO ANY COST SAVINGS OR IMPROVEMENT IN THE QUALITY OF EDUCATION FOR THE STUDENTS OF ONTARIO.

IF YOU BELIEVE, as we do, that the proposed new Board of Haliburton/Victoria/Peterborough/Northumberland-Clarington would have potentially serious negative effects on our area, we urge you to CALL THE TASK FORCE HOTLINE 1-800-562-6954 AND...

There's no place like home

Hard-working, conscientious, caring, involved...any one of these words, all of them and many more could be used to describe the recipients of the two community awards presented by the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce Wednesday evening.

Two highly respected individuals, Ernice Warder and Allan Bagg (and family) were honoured for their dedication to the communities in which they live and work. The lengthy lists of contributions these people have made to the community are recounted elsewhere in this edition of The Times. Those lists merely scratch the surface of the many ways these individuals have made the Highlands a better place in which to live. Indeed, there are few people who have lived here, even for a short time, who have not been touched by the involvement and activity of the two recipients.

We salute the selection of Ernice Warder and Allan Bagg. It is heartwarming to see their many years of dedication recognized in this public and laudatory fashion. These two recipients are examples of what good citizens should be.

While the presenters of the awards struggled to find the right words to put the contributions of Ernice and Allan into perspective, it is not surprising that the two recipients themselves chose almost identical phrases in responding to the presentations.

Both the Highlander of the Year, Ernice Warder, and Allan Bagg as owner of the Business of the Year, told the audience how much the Haliburton Highlands meant to them. In one word, they said, the Highlands was "home".

We are honoured and the community is enriched to have them as members of our community.

Toys

Editor:

Carol Moffatt's letter in regard to Day Airways makes perfectly good sense.

Far more damaging to the environment and to one's senses are those mindless "toys" (and their owners/operators) such as personal watercraft, remote control model planes and ATVs, all of which have frequently shattered the peace of summer weekends this year.

Personal watercraft destroy plants and wildlife on our lakes and rivers and contribute in no small measure to the erosion of river banks. ATVs churn up roads and destroy plant and small animal life when driven through the bush and woods and across fields. All these mechanised vehicles leave lingering clouds of gas fumes in their wakes.

May we receive some assurance that Cottagers' Associations, the Ministry of Natural resources and local government will begin to deal with these matters?

Jane Taylor,
Minden.

Nurse practitioners could be the answer

Editor:

As a cottager for 33 years in the Minden area, I am extremely concerned and perplexed by the threatened closure of Minden Hospital. Why or who feels the facility cannot be operated without doctors?

In a rapidly changing health care system, there needs to be creative solutions to complex resource problems. I agree this is difficult, but with today's shift to expanded roles in providing health care, there are alternatives.

Has there been a council meeting discussing the use of nurse practitioners (NP)? In association with a nearby doctor (Haliburton, Lindsay....) the NPs would act as the first contact person to help define the nature of the patient's problem. They decide on the urgency or the need to see a doctor, provide support/counselling, assist in prenatal/postnatal care, perform dressing changes, injections, vision/hearing screening, health promotion and disease prevention, ongoing supervision for patients with chronic illnesses and handle emergencies in the absence of a doctor.

Minden Hospital could become a community health centre, operated by nurse practitioners, registered nurses, volunteers...

Four Boards want public input on amalgamation proposal

Editor:

The Ontario School Board Reduction Task Force was established in February 1995 with a mandate to reduce the number of school boards by 40% to 50%. On September 6, the Task Force released an interim report proposing the creation of a mega board through the amalgamation for the four public boards serving Haliburton, Northumberland and Clarington, Peterborough and Victoria. The report does not recommend the amalgamation of public and separate school boards.

The chairs and the directors of the four boards have met to discuss how we may assist citizens to become more informed about amalgamation issues.

The four boards strongly support the best use of dollars for classrooms and for student learning, but are left with many questions from the interim report.

The report offers no data to support that the amalgamation will reduce the cost of operating school systems, while at the same time provide a wider range of educational opportunities and resources. Indeed, the task force indicates there will be changes in local taxation in some communities by 20% or more, but there are no figures to review.

The four boards will continue to coordinate efforts to provide information so parents and ratepayers in our communities can truly assess whether amalgamation is something the government should consider. In each jurisdiction we need to determine the implications of this proposal and whether it will put education services at risk or increase costs to ratepayers.

Change to school board organization is a community issue involving students, parents and ratepayers.

The four school chairpersons who have signed this letter strongly believe the community must consider the report's recommendations and respond.

Copies are available through public libraries and school board offices. Copies have also been sent to parents through children enrolled in schools. If you need further information about the report, or would like to express your view on it, we encourage you to contact your trustee, MPP or Board of Education office.

in collaboration with a doctor, at a fraction of the cost. Remote areas of Canada have been using this approach for years as they cannot entice doctors to work in isolated or underpopulated areas. These nurses are highly educated, skilled professionals who could service the community's needs. Why doesn't Minden want to provide such a facility?

Time is running out for permanent and seasonal residents to create a solution in the traditional manner - physicians delivering health care. As the government may soon impose the hospital closure, it may be time for Minden to be pro-active in their future care as opposed to reactive later!

Minden cannot afford to lose its health care facility simply due to a lack of interested doctors.

No cost savings identified

Editor:

I am writing this letter to voice my concern regarding the proposed amalgamation of the Haliburton County Board of Education with the Northumberland-Clarington, Peterborough and Victoria Counties Boards of Education.

The following are of particular concern:

■ The Sweeney Report has not identified what, if any, cost savings there would be. The data received from our Board indicates that rather than a tax savings for Haliburton County, we are looking at an increase of at least 25.73%.

■ Larger is not necessarily better or more cost effective.

■ Local Representation:

■ according to the Sweeney guidelines ALL of Haliburton County would have a .33 trustee.

■ would we have even one voice on this "mega" Board?

■ are we looking at reduced accountability and diminished ability for response to local needs?

The Royal Commission on Learning found no merit in amalgamating school boards. The Sweeney Interim Report has not identified and/or substantiated any positive outcomes for Haliburton County, only raised great concerns for the quality of education and the effect on our communities that the implementation of the Report would have.

Quoth the raven, 'Nevermore'

Walt Whitman, the American poet, said one of the wisest things about animals I've ever read.

*I think I could turn and live with animals,
They are so placid and self-contained.*

I often think of Whitman's words when I'm lining up like a sheep at a cash register getting ready to pay for something I don't really need, or when I find myself enmeshed like a maze rat in the twice-a-day March of Chrome that constitutes what we so laughably call "rush hour" traffic.

It doesn't rush and it's seldom over in an hour.

Animals don't worry about earthly stupidities like that. Deer browse. Robins look for nice fat earthworms. Rabbits nibble and crickets chirp. They did it when we pink and hairless interlopers hunched naked and shivering in caves and they do it today when we sit draped in polyester and hunched over computer terminals and steering wheels.

Animals just mind their own business. Except when we humans horn in.

Take the case of the Beast of Bowdin Moor.

For decades now, Britons living in the southwest corner of England have muttered about the strange goings on in the Moor, a desolate area not far from Cornwall.

People had "seen things". Strange things. Things not normally seen in the docile and bucolic environs of gentle England. Farmers spoke of unearthly screeches in the night. Disappearing pets. Huge shadows flashing through the under brush. Shadows that looked like, well...cats.

But massive cats. Cats as big as mountain lions or panthers.

Finally, last spring — conclusive proof. A pair of hikers stumbled across a large feline skull with two prominent fangs in the mud of a river bank on the edge of Bowdin Moor.

At last something for the scientists to work with. Experts knew that DNA testing on the skull would identify the origins of the Beast of Bowdin Moor and pinpoint where the animal originated. The skull was shipped off to the National History Museum in London, where a team of entomologists and zoologists cranked up their microscopes and conducted a battery of tests.

In the end it wasn't DNA testing or any other newfangled forensic detective work that pinned down the Beast of Bowdin Moor.

It was a cockroach.

They identified the skull, all right. It belonged to a black leopard.

But it was the presence of a cockroach egg case inside the skull that revealed the Beast of Bowdin Moor to be a hoax. The egg case came from a tropical cockroach that does not and cannot exist in England. The microscopes also revealed fine cut marks on the skull made with a knife.

"The conclusion is that this particular leopard skull came to Cornwall only by human agency," said the official report.

If the sensational British tabloids were shaken by the revelation, it didn't show. But then, they had other things to worry about.

The croaking raven of London

Tower, for instance.

That's croaking as in dead, defunct, bereft of life. Just like the Monty Python parrot. The raven, named Charlie, was k-o'd by a hungry police sniffer dog. That's when the tabloids got hold of the story — and reminded their readers what Charlie's death meant.

Charlie, you see, was a member of the elite raven platoon that's been guarding London Tower for the past 335 years — by appointment of His Majesty King Charles II.

Legend has it that the monarchy will crumble if the ravens ever leave the tower.

And now there are only five left.

And the Queen is reduced to charging admission to tourists and Diana's running around with rock stars and Charles is caught in 8x10 glossies skinny dipping in Portugal, and who knows what Princess Margaret is doing these days?

So is the monarchy safe?

Well, there's only one other world famous raven. The one invented by Edgar Allan Poe.

And you know what he was fond of saying.

The well-protected motor (and other items that weren't)

What does it take to protect a 9.9 horsepower outboard motor from a thief who is intent on stealing it?

According to Coboconk OPP, at least one cottage owner has outsmarted the bad guys. The motor was secured to the transom of the owner's boat with heavy duty bolts, secured by double nuts. There was a large, good quality padlock tying the two securing handles together. And finally, a one-eighth inch aircraft cable linked the motor to the transom.

"At this time of the year, when cottage areas are not heavily populated, property owners are reminded to take extra precautions in protecting items from theft," the OPP spokesman said.

A list of some of the items that were taken recently in the north Victoria County include: in the Coboconk area: Makita brand concrete drill, grinder, planer, and circular saw, socket set; Stihl model 038FB chain saw; 48" wagon wheel table with glass top; Realistic CD player; Hummingbird fish finder; Sony 20" colour TV; JVC model HR-D67ov VCR; red, white and blue Lazer full face helmet; royal blue Griffen helmet; GE cordless phone with charging unit; black Mission model 731 speakers; JVC model pc30 portable radio; Realistic Genexxa double cassette deck.

From the Norland area: a red and white Craftsman 20" chain saw; a lime green Pioneer 14" chain saw.

From the Kirkfield area: 12 foot Prince Craft aluminum boat; and a 9.8 hp black Mercury outboard motor.

Kawatha West champs are undefeated

Senior Redmen: Champions

Haliburton Highland's senior football team has done it again.

Thursday afternoon, with home field advantage, the Redmen defeated Lindsay Collegiate Institute, to complete the season with an undefeated record in six regular season games.

The final game of the season saw the Redmen yield one point to the visitors while claiming 38 for themselves.

Mike Bradley, playing tail back, picked up two touchdowns for the Redmen, despite the fact he was playing with a slight injury.

Coach Gary Brohman had praise for the arm of quarterback Kevin Morrisette. "He played an excellent game for us," Brohman said, "he threw for 150 yards."

Three other players were also noted in the coach's remarks. Will Wallace, Tim Stouffer and Jamie Swinson have all been turning in double duty for the Senior Redmen football players, coaches and supporters celebrated another successful season for the team. The team was undefeated in seven starts this year, including a pre-season exhibition contest.

With an LCVI defender in hot pursuit, Darnell Gilbert catches an over-the-shoulder pass to notch another touchdown for the Senior Redmen.

team playing for both the offensive and defensive teams.

The seniors now advance to the Kawatha play-offs against a team from Peterborough. They will be facing either Thomas A. Stewart or Crestwood Collegiate in the play-offs. The two Peterborough teams meet next Saturday to decide the winner. Coach Brohman said he will be on hand for the game to size up the opposition and prepare for the next round of play.

Junior loss

The season is over of the Redmen junior team. They went down to a 14-2 defeat at the hands of LCVI.

The team ended the season with two wins and four losses.

For coach Bruce Griffith, this has been a building year. The team was able manage two wins despite the fact that many of the players were first year rookies. With the training and teamwork that developed this year, the team has good prospects for the coming year.

Pee Wee B's win with two hat tricks

While many were out hunting for moose last week, the Minden Pee Wee B team was hunting for a win in the first game of the season. The Bobcaygeon Cougars were in town looking to clip the Monarchs, but the home town team was ready.

This year's team is a collection of players who have never played together before, but they looked like veterans in their season opener. Leading the offence was Brad Gauley, who earned a hat trick with assists from defenceman Tom Perrott and winger Matt McCord. His final effort was unassisted and was scored with only 20 seconds left to play in the game.

Jamie Doan, a player drafted from Haliburton, was to celebrate his twelfth birthday the following day. He played defence in his rookie year as a Huskie, but has moved to the centre position. The birthday celebration started early as Jamie scored a "natural" hat trick, three goals in a row. Two of his goals were assisted by another former Huskie, Kyle Robinson, who coincidentally was celebrating his birthday on game night.

The two hat tricks were all the scoring that Minden needed as the final tally was 6-4. Coach Jim Bleakley praised his players for a fine effort. The Monarchs depended on a great goaltending effort from Jeremy Davis, who made some sprawling saves that looked a little bit like Dominec Hasek.

Ryan Emmerson, Tom Perrott, Ryan Lydiatt and Matt Hutchinson made sure that the rebounds were cleared from in front of the net and they also kept the Bobcaygeon forwards cleared out too.

It is the first year for body contact for many of the players, which kept the games interesting and the moms a little nervous.

Rounding out the team are forwards James Bleakley (Who also does some goaltending), Chris Casella and Greg Kerr. Missing in action were Dennis Arbour. Good job boys!

There is a busy schedule ahead with the next match scheduled for Tuesday October 24 at the Oakwood arena against Mariposa.

Hallowe'en safety tips

Here are some important Hallowe'en safety tips from Stay Alert...Stay Safe, the national street-proofing organization funded through the Canadian Tire Child Protection Foundation.

1. Wear make-up instead of a mask so you can see properly.
2. Go trick or treating with a family member or friends.
3. An adult should check the treats before they are eaten.

4. Walk - don't run. Remember the safety traffic rules when crossing the streets. Only cross at the corner after looking both ways.

5. Only go to homes with lights on.
6. Don't go anywhere with strangers.
7. Don't go into houses.
8. A flashlight will light your way.
9. A short costume makes walking easier.

Gilligan and Ingram notch hat tricks for Sid Stamp Fuels

Hunting season has taken its usual toll on the teams in the Minden recreational hockey league. While all squads were able to ice a team, most were playing severely short-handed, leaving little time for a break.

SID STAMP FUELS 14-- HARTWICK CONSTRUCTION 6

Hat tricks by Carry Gilligan and Ivan Ingram led Sid Stamp Fuels to a 14 to 6 romp over Hartwick Construction Monday night. Gilligan also picked up two assists while Ingram assisted on a single. One of Ingram's markers was an unassisted effort.

Also scoring for the winners were Jeff Howe and Scott Bailey with a pair each. Howe assisted on three others while Bailey seconded on two. Other markers went to Dennis McKee with an unassisted effort and five assists, Barry Smith also with three assists, Steve McCracken with one and one and a single for Mark Thompson.

Scott Hamilton led the goal scoring for Hartwick with a hat trick and a single assist. Eldon Bull, Bill Hogg and Scott Nesbitt each added singles to the Hartwick total. Bull and Hogg had two assists with Nesbitt getting one. D. Crego picked up two assists in the game while a single went to Dave Dollo.

WESTSIDE 6-- HOME HARDWARE 2

Two goals from John Stephenson, one unassisted and a pair from Kim Hamilton gave Westside Jug City the edge it needed to defeat Home Hardware in the opening game Monday night. Other goals were scored by John Hewson and John Walden. Hewson picked up two assists with a single going to Walden. Doug Schell assisted on three goals while Andy Campbell assisted on two.

Tom Miscio and Dwayne Warburton scored the two goals for Home Hardware. Miscio also picked up an assist. Other Home Hardware assists went to Ron May, Gary Harrison and Terry Crowe.

Surrounded by a swirl of hockey players, Westside goalie Rob Crowe prepares to defend his net.

THE TIMES 12--KOUNTRY DOUBLE D

Both teams piled on the goals in the second game of Monday night's action. Jamie Dollo led the charge for The Times, notching five goals and four assists. Two of his goals were unassisted. C. Smith and an unidentified player (27) scored two goals each while singles went to D. Ward, D. Hounsell and yet another unidentified player (26). Hounsell picked up four assists in the game while Ward had one. Others assisting in the effort were John Ballantyne with three and J. Crawford with a single.

Newfer Burke was the top scorer for Kountry Double D with three goals and three assists. Single were notched by Glenn Hall, Paul Mayo, Ed Gibbons and Wyatt Nesbitt. Hall, Mayo and Nesbitt also picked up a pair of assists each. Fraser Rogers added a single assist.

The league plays three games each Monday night at the Minden arena. The first game starts at 8 p.m.

Two wins and two ties

OMHA Pee Wees off to strong start

The first game of the season for the OMHA Pee Wees was played September 30 in Minden against Haliburton. A great way to start the season.

It was a spirited game with lots of end-to-end action.

Minden opened the scoring in the first period when Josh Shaw scored with the assist going to Mark Hamilton. Haliburton tied the score a minute later. Josh Shaw scored again before the first period ended, this time the assist going to Dan Nielsen.

Haliburton took the play to our squad in the second period, notching two goals to take the lead. A big hit from Gary Kernohan brought the team back to life. Ashley Pettes picked off an errant pass and tied the game.

Both teams struggled to regain the lead, but the goalies withstood the test and the exhibition match ended with the score deadlocked.

Coach Barry Shaw commented that he was pleased with this first effort, with great fore-checking and the defence doing its job of keeping the opposition clear from the front of the net. Both goalies, Phillip Neville and Shane Walker were outstanding.

First league game

In the first league game of the season, October 7, the Monarchs outplayed Woodville to come away with a 4-1 win on home ice. Mark Hamilton scored the opening goal in the first period with Gary Kernohan and Josh Shaw assisting. Ashley Pettes scored in the second frame from Justin Bull.

Josh Shaw added the third marker in the final period with Ashley Pettes picking up the assist. Woodville broke the shut-out before Justin Bull notched the final tally of the contest, the assist going to Gaten Davis.

There were many missed opportunities in this game, Coach Shaw noted. Both goaltenders and the defence played well.

Bobcaygeon at Minden

Gary Kernohan opened the scoring against Bobcaygeon in the second period with the assist going to Dan Nielsen. The game was played October 14 in Minden. The visitors tied the score just 19 seconds later. Gaten

Davis reclaimed the lead for the Monarchs halfway through the second frame on a goal from Jarett Rowden and Dan Nielsen.

Coach Barry Shaw noted that the team was not playing up to its ability, but that the outstanding goaltending of the two netminders kept the squad in the game. "The players showed grit in not letting the Bobcaygeon team tie up the game," he commented. "All our boys are trying hard, but they made a number of mental mistakes."

Minden at Sunderland

It took a period before the boys got their skating legs in the first road game of the season played October 16 in Sunderland. While they were finding their feet, Sunderland managed two goals.

The boys came out skating in the second period and took the game to the Sunderland end. Gary Kernohan scored from Dan Nielsen and Gavin Simms. Jarett Rowden notched one from Josh Shaw to tie the contest.

Sunderland bounced back with another marker to take the lead, with Gary Kernohan on an unassisted effort putting the match on an even footing again. The game ended in a 3-3 tie.

The Monarchs outplayed Sunderland, out-shooting them 5-1.

The Pee Wees played again last Saturday night (October 21).

The team roster

Captain: Jarett Rowden playing defence and forward

Goal: Phillip Neville and Shane Walker

Defence: Trevor Woods, Kent Greer, Gavin Simms

Forward: Josh Shaw, Dan Nielsen, Justin Bull, Gaten Davis, Gary Kernohan, Ashley Pettes and Mark Hamilton

Staff: coach Barry Shaw; trainer Dave Rogers; manager Doug Kernohan.

Health care study still under wraps

The paper which may ultimately determine the shape health care in Haliburton County takes in the years to come was ready in second draft last week, but is not yet ready for release to the public.

The Acting Health Services Board (AHSB), the local board expected to take over operation of the hospitals in Haliburton and Minden in 1996 or 1997, is having the usage/demographics study done to resolve, among other things, the thorny question of where in the county emergency services should be located.

The AHSB met to discuss the second draft of the paper October 20, and was in session, in a meeting including other health care stakeholders, from 10 am to 3 pm, but participants are unable to divulge what the paper's current incarnation has to say.

The paper is an attempt to assess the needs and current usage patterns of emergency health care throughout the service area.

Cribbage anyone?

Grade four students at Archie Stouffer Elementary School are hosting 'cribbage socials' — and have extended an invitation to anyone interested in helping the youngsters learn the game. Right are Ryan Newbatt, Gary Kemohan, Brendan Farrell, and Ryan Vaters. Senior students Kemohan and Newbatt have donned costumes as they sit in for the mentors who haven't shown yet. Teacher Bernie Davis says she organized the event in part because the game teaches math skills. Davis is hoping that senior citizens in the community who know the game will be willing to spare a few hours to join the students at the card tables. Anyone interested in participating can call the school at 286-1921.

Beaverton club visits MindenLawn bowlers end season

-submitted-

Members of the Beaverton Lawn Bowling Club were the guests September 22 of the Minden lawn Bowling Club. This visit has become an annual event which members from both organizations enjoy.

The fall dinner for members was held at Hart Lodge on October 5. Prior to dinner, Anson, Hindon and Minden Reeve Jeanne Anthon brought greetings from the municipal council. Following the meal, awards for the year were presented.

The Eric Hardman Trophy was presented to Tom Hurtt, Helen Burton, Bill O'Brien and Ed McKay for winning the first quad series of games.

Jim Burton, Dick Donaldson, Ed McKay and

Richarda Rogers were the winners of the Club Trophy for the second series of quad games and they also won the over-all President's Trophy.

Don Sinclair presented the Ethel Sinclair Trophy to Eleanor Young, Vi Howell and Maxine Cross for winning the first trebles series. They also went on to win the over-all Club Trophy for the trebles games.

The Dorothy Webert Trophy was presented to Vi Howell. Fellow team members Joan Mackenzie and Rowland Sedgewick were unable to attend. They won the second series of trebles games.

The winners of the Golf Trophy were Ross Farr, Shirley Terveld, Darryl Sewell and Katie Parker.

Social convener Barbara Walker and games chairman Ross Farr organized a bowling day October 14. Fifty bowlers took part and enjoyed a great day of fellowship. Throughout the day, 12 teams of quads competed. The first place winners were Katie Parker, John Mackey, Darryl Sewell and Jean Hollobon. In second place were Howie Ryan, Laurel Tompkins, Bill Walker and Elinor Smith. The third place winners were Ross Farr, Cy Heal, Ed McKay and Neil Cartwright. All of the winners received a turkey.

Korean vets form Lindsay unit

The Korea Veterans Association of Canada has announced the formation of Unit 71 in Lindsay.

Concert Series openerBattling bows delight audience

by Kevin Brezina, student reviewer

Last Sunday's (October 15) instalment of the Haliburton Highlands Concert Series was entitled "Bending the Bows". It was truly a display of skill and musicianship, as well as a comedic look at the contrasts in the style of the fiddle and the violin. Of course, as any string musician knows, these are the same instrument.

The concert was given by two men; Eduard Minevich and Frank Leahy, who were backed by a jazz rhythm section. Mr. Minevich is concertmaster with the Waterloo Symphony and displays finely polished technique and a great stage presence. He has studied at the highly regarded Leningrad Conservatory and acted as concertmaster for several other orchestras in the past. His experience and versatility contributed much to the production.

Frank Leahy is a former National Fiddling Champion who's quick fingers and steady rhythm kept the audience's toes tapping through most of the performance. He has been a session player on a nationally syndicated radio show, and really knows how to heat things up on the violi... (ahem) ...fiddle.

The performance consisted of a dozen pieces ranging from Classical to Country and Jalousie to Jigs. The basic premise was, as Leahy put it, "that music sounds good as long as it's played well." And well played it certainly was. Baroque and Classical dominated the first half of the program, brought in by a precise rendition of "Carmen Fantasy". Leahy's entrance onto the stage was heralded by a lively tune called "Hot Country Fiddle". The stupefied Minevich gaped as a smiling Leahy trotted to centre stage wearing a cowboy hat and vest as opposed to the tuxedos worn by the other musicians. The entrance was executed perfectly, as was the theft of the show.

What followed was a "battle of the styles" if you will, with both players attempting to outdo, upstage, and make fun of one another. The violinist insisted the audience was too sophisticated to enjoy fiddle music, as the fiddler insisted that violin music was too tedious to hold the audience for any length of time. Minevich finally ordered Leahy off the stage and finished the first half with Jalousie.

The second half of the program was role reversal time, with Minevich coming on in cowboy garb, and Leahy in a tux. They reversed philosophies as well as clothing, and left the stage after a couple of songs for yet another change of costume.

During this break in the program, the jazz rhythm section supplied us with what I thought to be some of the best music in the concert, a lively original jazz composition that sounded great, and provided a nice break from the violin solos we'd heard up to this point.

The fiddler and violinist rejoined each other on the stage and began a series of pieces that seemed to be a compromise between the two extremes shown earlier in the performance. Old favourites such as "Danny Boy" and "Tea for Two" were played in this section, which seemed to be the most popular part of the program.

The performance ended to a standing ovation so hearty, the artists offered an encore rendition of "Dueling Banjos" finishing this to a standing ovation as well.

This was a great performance and would have been a shame to miss. Special mention should go to the rhythm section for their excellent performances throughout the show. Minevich and Leahy work together superbly, and it is their chemistry that really drives this show. My only complaint is the use of the rhythm section in certain classical pieces. It seemed to somehow diminish the true feeling of the music in some places. Still it was a great show all round.

If the next instalment of the concert series is as entertaining, you can bet that I'll be there.

(The concert series continues on November 19 with the music of Andrew Lloyd Webber. There will be "Cabaret style" seating for this evening so reservations are a must as there will be no tickets sold at the door. For more information call 286-1218 or 286-3756.)

A special place

On Thanksgiving weekend, my family passed up turkey to backpack up the Stein Valley near Lytton, British Columbia. For over a decade, a rancorous battle has pitted the logging community against people of the first nations and environmentalists over the fate of the valley, the last intact watershed in southwestern B.C. To date, the logging road has been kept out.

Exactly five years ago we made the same trip, so we were anxious to see if much had changed. To our joy, nothing had been perceptively altered.

The river is full of pink salmon, nicknamed "humpies" for the big lump on the back of the hook-nosed males. These animals have fought their way through a gauntlet of hooks, nets, pollution and human development. And here they are, gathered in pools to rest, battered and spotted with white patches of fungus that will devour their carcasses. Driven by the imperative to reach the spawning beds before their genetically programmed deaths, they still cling to life and possess the power to leap barriers in the river.

Within a few hundred metres of the trailhead is a rock wall covered with ancient pictographs that remind us that this was a sacred valley for the Aboriginal people whose descendants still live in the territory. The steep, stone faces of the valley are pocked with caves, some of which are burial sites. During the annual Stein Festivals held to celebrate the watershed, native people often refer to the place in reverential terms as a temple, a sacred place, a sanctuary.

Puffing up the Devil's Staircase. I try to ignore the pain of cramped muscles by concentrating on other things. I remember when I was flown up this valley eight years ago with a guide who pointed out cedar groves that supply bark, grizzly feeding areas and the site of an ancient battle between warring tribes. The helicopter pilot chimed in to say that a week before, when he had flown a party of forest industry and government officials up the same valley, all they had talked about was "board feet, jobs and profit."

I think of the president and CEO of a major forest company whose letter to local mayors had described environmentalists as "anti-everythings."

Environmentalists are often dismissed as too "depressing, pessimistic" or the "messengers of doom and gloom." They are castigated as "radicals" or "eco-terrorists." Nothing could be further from the truth.

After 50 years of unprecedented economic growth during which global wealth has grown more than 500 per cent, the gap between rich and poor countries has widened. Even within industrialized nations, wealth generated by rapid economic expansion has not been spread evenly. Instead, it has been concentrated by fewer and fewer individuals and companies while most people work longer and harder. What is truly depressing are the people who are so lacking in understanding that all they can do is mindlessly push for what clearly has failed — more economic growth regardless of the social and ecological costs. Environmentalists are the true conservatives; they want to save, protect and slow down the pace of life. People who rush into wilderness areas like the Stein, which never have been studied or inventoried, and trash them without regard to whether they can be sustained or restored are the real radicals and eco-terrorists.

I reflect on the words of B.C. biologist Bristol Foster, who described the struggles to protect areas like the Stein: "In saving wilderness, every victory could be temporary, every defeat is permanent."

Environmentalists are not against everything. They are for the most important things on this planet that keep us alive and healthy. They are for clean air, clean water, clean soil and a diversity of creatures all over the world.

Environmentalists work for local communities that are sustainable, for economies in which full employment, security and spiritual needs are paramount. And as they work to protect wilderness areas, they celebrate the wondrous variety of life forms which share this planet with us.

At the start of the trail, we find eight parked vehicles, yet in three days of hiking we don't see a sign of litter or human debris. For three days, my wheezing from a newly acquired asthma disappears in the clean air. As we drink the pure frigid water from the river, it is like a sacrament. There is an overwhelming sense that the salmon, the dazzling fall leaves, the autumn mists sliding over the mountains, confirm the timelessness of nature's rhythms that are so easily forgotten in urban areas. By being here, we are giving thanks for this special place and all the others on the planet.

Friends at South Lake Trailer Park were very sorry to hear of the passing of Joe Crego last week after a lengthy illness. They will miss his happy face and his many jokes and tell us that Joe was a hard worker and if anyone ever needed a helping hand all they had to do was call "Joe do you have a minute". Campfires were his specialty and often one would see a large circle around the fire, be it friends or family. He made everyone feel real welcome even if he wasn't feeling well. The Crego clan visited often for he had a very large family. He sure loved the wee ones and he was proud of them all. Our condolences to the Crego family in the loss of your husband, father and grandfather.

"His weary hours and days of pain,
His troubled nights are past,
And in our aching hearts we know,
He has found sweet rest at last".
